Is Your Retirement Secure?

Take this simple quiz:

- 1) If you earn $100,000 a year, you'll need income of $55,750 a year during your retirement to maintain your current lifestyle.
 TRUE FALSE
- 2) To retire comfortably and securely, you must accumulate $1 million by age 65. TRUE FALSE
- 3) Approximately 80% of Americans will depend on help from their family or the government to support them in retirement.
 TRUE FALSE

You've read it almost everywhere: To retire today, you need to save at LEAST a million dollars (excluding the house you live in).

But with the average lifespan at 76 years - and many of us living well into our 80's and 90's - even a million dollars may not be enough to last us throughout our lifetime.

Now, we don't know your personal situation. Or whether having enough money in retirement is a concern to you. Only you can answer that.

So...if you feel 100% confident that you can retire when you want to, and enjoy the lifestyle you are accustomed to, for as long as you live - well, you probably don't need to read any further.

On the other hand, if you've ever stayed up nights asking yourself ...

..."Can I live on my retirement savings without having to go back to work part-time?"

..."Will my retirement nest egg last me for the rest of my life?"

..."How will I pay for health care if I get sick with a long-term illness?"

..."What if stocks go down and wipe away even more of my retirement portfolio?"

...then we believe you'll find the special FREE offer we are about to make to you of particular interest.

Enjoy a worry-free retirement for as long as you live.
